A MESSAGE FROM THE OFFICE OF CHIEF TYSON BEAR

Tansi Niwâhkômâkanitik,

We, on Chief & Council, hope that this newsletter finds you all in good health. We have been busy with orientating new key administrative and economic development roles, and working on growth for our First Nation. I would like to thank all of our past representation in paving the way to a prosperous and vibrant future of all members of Flying Dust First Nation today, tomorrow and in future endeavors.

Our Nation has grown over the years and will continue to develop its resources to benefit all band members on and off reserve. We continue to build capacity for our members to feel supported. Today we have more resources and programs in to which can give members the proper tools to succeed and create a positive impact at home and in society.

Some of the Flying Dust First Nation programs and resources to date are Prevention, Mental Health, Addictions, Community Wellness, Jordan's Principle, Education, Recreation, Justice, Housing, Youth Centre, Community Health which includes Nursing, Home Care, Community Health Support, Maternal Child Health, Community Health Rep, Medical Transportation, EMR, FDFN Daycare, Employment and Training, O&M and continually growing and creating more projects like our New Flying Dust Fitness Facility, Adult Learning Centre, Security Headquarters, Transitional Home, Emergency Receiving Homes, and a Gladue Lake development for Land Based Learning programs.

With all that being said, I would like to send my personal thank you to all staff past and present for all the hard work, sacrifices and dedication to our Nation. I hope you enjoy the information found in this Newsletter, this is just some but not all of the projects, businesses and program updates. We are excited to share more in the future.

To all our Flying Dust First Nation Band Members we look forward to visiting with you at the General Band Meetings.

FDFN HOUSING

Flying Dust is proud to employ its own crew with Journeyman and apprentices in all trades. With plans to keep building homes with both CMHC and INAC funding. Continue upgrading/renovating homes with the fund that we have available to us. As tenants it is important to continue open communication with Housing office on and issues with Flying Dust homes. Keeping in mind that staff and tenants need to make decisions on a want and a need basis.

The one of the best parts of being part of Flying Dust is the on-call service. In an emergency please reach out to Flying Dust staff at 306-240-4077. Emergencies are: Water break, no water, furnace shutting off and power outage.

Flying Dust Housing Team has hosted a Home Maintenance Course the past 3 years in February. It is a great opportunity for Tenants to learn more about their homes. Working together to understand Flying Dust Housings responsibilities and the Tenants responsibilities.

Check out our website: www.flyingdust.net for our current Housing Policy!

FLYING DUST MARKET GARDEN

As the off-season progresses, the team at Flying Dust Market Garden is diligently preparing for the upcoming season. With a renewed sense of enthusiasm and dedication, the garden is now accepting new applications, inviting more individuals to join in its mission of sustainable agriculture and community empowerment.

In the heart of our community, the Flying Dust Market Garden has marked a remarkable year of growth and success in 2023. With a surge in external funding from government grants and generous donations, the garden received an impressive total of nearly $700,000. This influx of funds has catalyzed a series of transformative additions and improvements to the garden's operations.

One of the most exciting developments this year was the introduction of honey bees to the garden. This new venture not only diversifies the garden's produce but also plays a crucial role in pollinating the crops, ensuring a bountiful harvest. The funding also facilitated the acquisition of essential farming equipment, repairs, and renovations that have significantly enhanced the garden's efficiency and productivity.

The Flying Dust Market Garden stands as a shining example of how community-driven initiatives, supported by generous funding and a committed workforce, can lead to remarkable achievements in sustainable agriculture and local development. The garden's success is a testament to the community's commitment to managing its own food sovereignty and paving the way for a self-sustainable future.

Welcome
to Joanne Roy,
FDFN's new COO (Band Manager)!

Tansi, Hello my name is Joanne Roy and I live in Beauval however grew up in Meadow Lake, Saskatchewan and I'm a Treaty 6 band member from Waterhen Lake First Nation. I've been married for 30 plus years and have 5 children and 6 grandchildren. I have family connections to Flying Dust through my maternal grandmother. I understand and speak the Cree language and credits her late parents and grandparents for this valuable teaching. I have been taught to respect individuals, have my own voice and to listen.

My education background consists of a Bachelor of Arts, Business Administration degree, Aboriginal Justice and Criminology (ABJAC) degree and Advance Local Government Administration Certification. I acknowledge my family for encouraging and educating me on the importance of getting an education in order to have the same tools and understanding of our networks and society.

I have nearly 40 years of work experience with the most recent employment of working for a Northern Municipal Government, Waterhen Lake First Nation Chief & Council position, along with the Meadow Lake Tribal Council and Meadow Lake First Nations. My interests are in governance, aboriginal justice, and economic development. I continue to support the Northwest Saskatchewan Indigenous communities by being a board member representative for distribution of business loans, the Native Court-worker Program and most recently a Legal Aid Commission representative.

I look forward to serving the community of Flying Dust First Nation along with supporting the leadership on ensuring strong governance, project management and trustworthiness. Being a team player with executives and employees will ensure better office management and accountability.

Let's remind one another to help others in need and be supportive. In closing, I believe the importance of balancing a positive and healthy lifestyle, maintaining and practicing our traditional culture, beliefs and language. Finally, lets continue to hear and listen to our Elders stories and to learn from their experiences.

The new Circle of Care Model and Prevention strategy is to ensure that all programs fit and work within one blanket. This Model is also designed to cover all aspects of our most Sacred Teachings and to show what programming can offer to those in need and create the proper programming to meet all needs to come.

5. What are some of the business's that Flying Dust First Nation owns?

Snipe & Celly is a business venture that is totally separate from the day to day program and service budgets. They are a proud sports excellence sporting goods and apparel store. Give Snipe & Celly a call for all your custom promotional needs!

FDB Gravel is owned by FDFN and is an operated bulk aggregate supplier for northern Saskatchewan. FDB Gravel specialize in a wide range of variety of rock such as 3/4 crushed rock, traffic 106, highway base course type 33, rip rap, two-inch base and much more. FDB Gravel currently employs 5 first nations and metis people. Give them a call for a quote...no job too big or too small!

Other business includes Flying Dust Market Garden, Flying Dust Security and FDB Fuels. FDFN business's employ Flying Dust band members in different capacities!

The business operations are monitored with the oversight of the newly established Economic Development Board along with our Director of Economic Development. The selection of the Board was provided to allow diversity for FDFN. We have included leadership and community members, as well as independent professionals with legal, financial, and business backgrounds.

6. How do I find out information about claims and Flying Dust?

Community members can always find current up to date information online. The link below is a status report on past and present specific claims:

https://services.aadnc-aandc.gc.ca/SCBRI_E/Main/ReportingCentre/External/externalreporting.aspx (Search Flying Dust First Nation)

Treaty Land Entitlement (SETTLED June 1993): the settlement of $6,437,439 continues to be managed by Chief and Council appointed TLE Trustees for the strategic purchase of lands to be converted into reserve status. This has been a successfully managed trust that continues to provide for the purchase of land, Treaty Salaries Claim (SETTLED March 2022): the settlement of $1,207,267.00 was put towards community development, specifically funding the Youth Centre project. Updates on the youth centre project will be released soon.

Treaty Annuities Claim (SETTLED December 2019): the settlement of $698,094.00 was put towards the paving of FDFN roads.

Current Ongoing Claims:

- Agricultural Benefits Claim (Cows & Plows)

The Agriculture Benefits Claim was filed in June 2019 and the law firm representing FDFN is from Edmonton – TLE LLP. The claim based on a breach of the Treaty agreement. Flying Dust belongs to Treaty 6. The treaty provided for a one-time benefit to each nation of farming implements to help the Treaty 6 nations to encourage the practice of agriculture. The treaty promise was not fulfilled, and the articles listed in the Treaty were either poor in quality or not provided at all. FDFN is currently in negotiations with Canada and waiting to receive an offer.

- Railway Claim

The Railway Claim stems from the expropriation of lands for railway purposes. When the railway no longer required the land for railway purposes the land should have been returned. Instead, some parcels were sold off or leased to 3rd parties. This claim is attempting to compensate for loss of use of the lands.

Railway Remediation Funding: this money was granted for the purpose of an environmental cleanup of the contaminated lands on railway. This was required as a necessary step before the lands could be transferred back into reserve status.

7. How do I apply and what is the hiring process for FDFN HR?

Watch for job postings on:

- FDFN Employment & Training Facebook page
- JobSask Online
- FDFN app (Download app on your phone and register today!)
- www.flyingdust.net
- www.mltc.net

Send in your updated resume, credentials and CPIC to the Human Resources Manager. Your resume will be screened for applicable education and experience. If you are a good candidate for the role you may be selected for an interview! Any employee that is hired for the band must also be in good standing. The interview panel will consist of three individuals depending on the position; supervisor, department manager/director, COO and MLTC employee from the same department, HR or a community member who has knowledge for the role being hired. Anyone with a conflict of interest must declare and decline the invite to sit on the panel.

There is a Human Resources Policy that has been revised and passed effective January 1, 2023 and is implemented and followed.

8. Where can I find financial information regarding Flying Dust First Nation?

The annual financial audits are available for review on-line (Indigenous Services Canada) webpage to see the transparency of finances. Flying Dust First Nation annual audits have all been “Unqualified Audits” (in good standing)

2022-23 Financial Audits:

https://fnp-ppn.aadnc-aandc.gc.ca/fnp/Main/Search/FNMain.aspx?BAND_NUMBER=395&lang=eng go to “FNFTA” and press OK and this will lead you to the Audited Financial Statements.

First Nation Profiles (aadnc-aandc.gc.ca)

With the newly hired Director of Finance FDFN is also working to implement the Financial Administration Law (FAL).

9. Are there programs for the Elders of FDFN?

Yes, Health & Wellness are currently planning to continue a weekly program with students from Kopahawakenum Community School to prepare food for the Elders at the lodge.

Elders will also be able to attend the scheduled wellness days, elder walking program, with more new initiatives coming.

10. What kind of committees have been developed for community members to be involved with Flying Dust?

The governance committee was formed as a working group to develop the Membership Act. They provided feedback and carried the project through to a community vote. In the future if there are other governance laws/bylaws in need of drafting the governance committee will convene to provide feedback.

There is an active Settlement Planning Committee that was put together this past fall after a publicly advertised call out for any members to join. The settlement planning committee recently attended trust presentations from 3 different financial institutions and to assist with planning for a future Agriculture Benefits Settlement.

11. What is the role of our in-house legal counsel?

- In-house lawyer, a band member, has been assisting with policy and bylaw development, settlement claims and ensuring that the First Nation is making sound decisions based on legislation, acts and laws
- Corporate and land transactions of the First Nation and each of its entities
- Assists many band members with their personal legal questions, wills and other personal documentation
- Attends traffic court to prosecute the tickets that were given from FDFN Community Safety Officer
- Has assisted several band members in filling out applications for their own personal class action claims (ie: day school claim, water claim)

Our In-House Legal Counsel Does Not:

- Represent band members on criminal matters
- Represent band members on family law matters

12. How many band members does Flying Dust First Nation have?

- 1949 (with approximately 500 of them under 18)

13. What is the plan for gangs, drug dealers to be removed from Flying Dust First Nation?

There are social concerns in our community and FDFN meets with RCMP regularly to discuss and try to address these issues. Unfortunately, gangs and drugs are an issue shared by many communities in the north as well as the whole province. Flying Dust is actively working on a plan to deal with this issue.

If you have any general questions you think should be featured, feel free to email us at reception@flyingdust.net

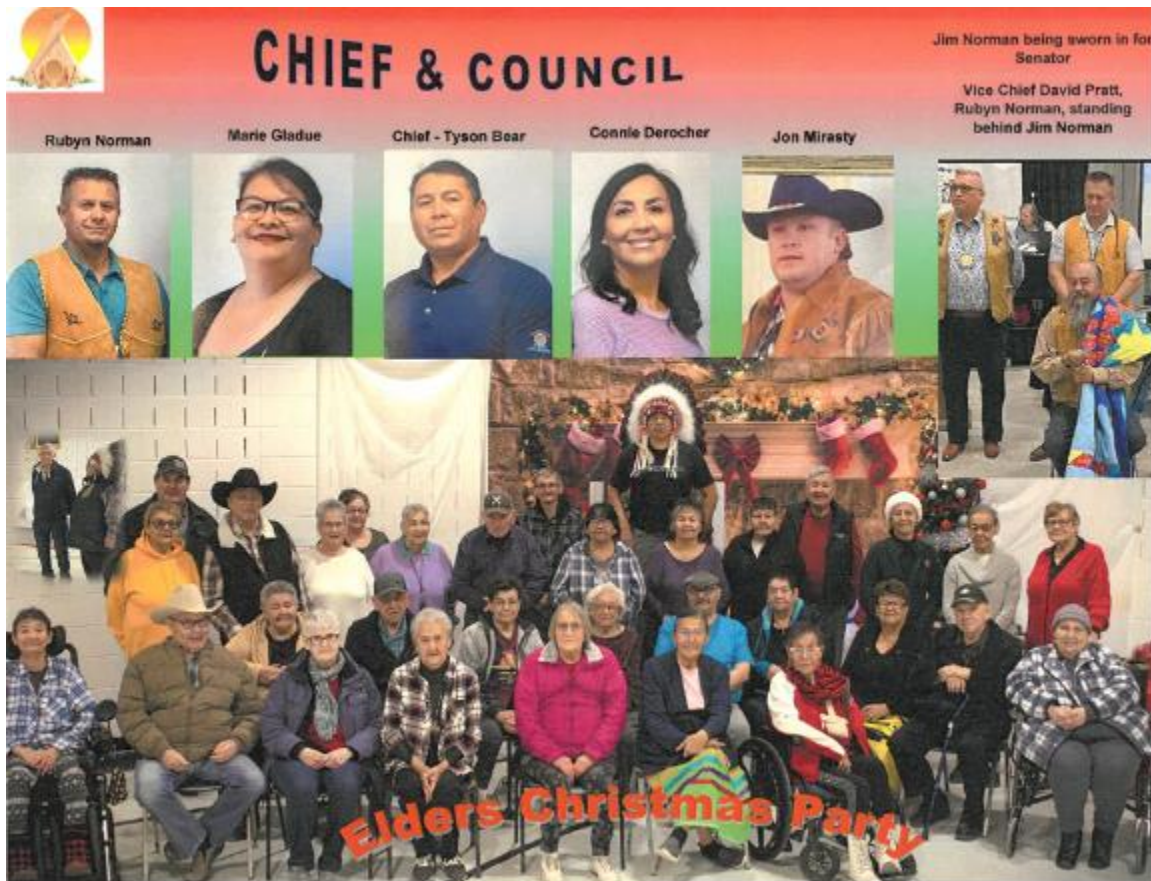

Value statement: We are an inclusive community that honors and respects the diversity of our members and provides the opportunity for everyone to succeed.
